Convocation, Commencement Highlight Centennial Year

Close to 4000 friends of Juniata, including alumni and parents, made their way to College Hill for the two major highlights of the College's Centennial academic year: its Centennial Convocation and Commencement/Reunion Weekend.

Seeing the College's history "not only as something to take pride in, but also to learn from," Dr. James B. Rhoads, archivist of the United States, delivered the Convocation address to a crowd of more than 1300. He urged Juniata to "lean on the past for guidance and inspiration. Your first 100 years have been full of accomplishment. Your past is a sturdy one to stand upon."

Dr. Rhoads, the nation's chief official historian, was also awarded the honorary doctor of humane letters degree. Dr. Warren F. Groff '49, president of Bethany Theological Seminary, and John W. Swigart, Sr. '30, president of Huntingdon's Swigart Associates, Inc., were also awarded the honorary doctor of divinity and doctor of laws degrees, respectively.

The Convocation also included the investiture of Dr. Frederick M. Binder as the eighth president of Juniata. In his brief response Dr. Binder stated "We have been, we are, and we shall continue to be a strong, undergraduate liberal arts college, interested in the individual student, concerned with moral and cultural values, and committed to learning.

"With roots in the tradition of the church," he concluded, "Juniata can do no more in its second century than remain faithful to its motto: Veritas Liberat, truth sets free."

Upon his investiture Dr. Binder was presented with one of two new pieces of College tradition, both introduced at the Convocation to celebrate this year. He received the bronze Presidential Medallion, featuring the College Seal, which will be worn by the president for all special College ceremonies.

In recognition of prior leadership, further, replicas of the medallion were presented to Presidents Emeriti Calvert N. Ellis '23 and John N. Stauffer '36.

Kenneth J. Wenger '50, outgoing president of the National Alumni Association, presented Dr. Binder with the other new piece, the Juniata Centennial Mace, a gift from the Association. Hewn from a beam of the James Creek Church of the Brethren, the home church of Juniata's founders, the mace features seals paying tribute to Juniata's students, the church, and the community.

Also honored at the Convocation was Dr. John C. Baker, who stepped down that weekend as chairman of the Board of Trustees. Recognizing Dr. Baker's 13 years in the post and first 40 years on the board, Dr. Binder announced that the board has commissioned a portrait to be hung in the Baker Refectory of Ellis College Center.

Four persons brought anniversary greetings from the student body, faculty, Church Relations Council and the Huntingdon community, respectively: Shelly A. Kaltenbaugh '76; Dr. J. Peter Trexler, professor of geology; Rex W. Hershberger '50, chairman; and John H. Biddle '26, owner and publisher of the Huntingdon Daily News. The Rev. Joseph M. Mason, executive secretary of the Middle Pennsylvania District, Church of the Brethren, offered the invocation.

In addition to representatives of more than 50 colleges, universities, churches and associations, a large number of direct descendants of the founders and early faculty members attended the Convocation. Among them were three special platform guests—Dr. G. Edwin Brumbaugh 'H74, son of third president M. G. Brumbaugh; G. Edwin Emmert, son of David Emmert, fourth faculty member; and Dr. Frances Holsopple Parsons '12, granddaughter of first president James Quinter.

Convocation guests availed themselves of numerous other opportunities during the weekend, including a special Sunday service in the Stone Church of the Brethren featuring Dr. Donald F. Durnbaugh, professor of church history at Bethany; a Saturday morning lecture by Dr. and Mrs. Durnbaugh; and a Saturday evening Festival in Drama and Music.

HELMAN, MRS. ELLIS HONORED

On Commencement/Reunion Weekend, highlight of which was the graduation of 212 seniors, Dr. A. Blair Helman, president of Manchester College and moderator of the Church of the Brethren, gave the graduates one last "assignment."

Delivering his commencement address before a crowd exceeding 2500, he told the class "Whether democracy and freedom will continue to be expanded, whether human need will be met at home and abroad, whether equal opportunity will be opened to all people, whether peace will be secured and maintained around the world, whether human wisdom will prevail in the affairs of men and women of all nations—all this, and much more, rests in your hands. The future is your assignment."

Dr. Helman received the honorary doctor of laws degree, while Elizabeth Wertz Ellis '26, former first lady of the College, received the honorary doctor of humane letters degree. The awards were the second of the weekend for each: Mrs. Ellis had shared the Alumni Association's annual Service Award with Dr. Baker, while Dr. Helman shared the Achievement Award with the 10 other living alumni who have served as college or seminary presidents. The Alumni Awards were presented at Saturday's Alumni Luncheon.

In other Commencement activity, A. David Mingle and Janice Diehl Raub, both of Roaring Spring, were awarded their degrees summa cum laude. Mingle, a pre-medicine major, had achieved a perfect 3.0 academic average.

Also, yet another special tribute was paid Dr. Baker, who urged in remarks that the graduates continue "to participate fully in all facets of their lives." In addition, Dr. Trexler was named recipient of the ninth annual Beachley Distinguished Professor Award.

Earlier in the day, the Rev. Dean M. Miller, pastor of the Hagerstown Church of the Brethren, offered the Baccalaureate sermon before another large congregation.

At the Alumni Luncheon, others receiving Alumni Awards were Drs. Ellis, Stauffer, and Groff; Dr. Paul M. Robinson '35 of Bethany; Dr. John W. Henderson '49, Washburn University; Dr. Leland W. Miles '46, University of Bridgeport; Dr. William W. Hassler '39, Wesley College; Dr. Gene E. Sease '52, Indiana Central University; Dr. Morley J. Mays '32, Elizabethtown College; and David Nettleton '42, Faith Baptist Bible College. All but Drs. Ellis, Stauffer and Robinson, who hold emeritus status, are currently active presidents.

Dr. Baker, of course, as president emeritus of Ohio University, received both the Service and Achievement Awards.

Also honored at the luncheon was Dr. Harold B. Brumbaugh '33, who retires in June as vice-president for college relations after 40 years of devoted and energetic service. Dr. Brumbaugh was presented with a book containing more than 200 cards and letters of congratulations.

In addition, Wenger announced the establishment of a Harold Bennett Brumbaugh Alumni House at 1700 Mifflin St. Already owned by the College, the house will be restored and refurbished with funds provided by the Alumni Association to serve as a meeting place and provide guest accommodations.

ALUMNI OFFICERS NOTED

Wenger also introduced his successor as Association president, Richard L. Dodge '57; the new vice-president, Frances Clemens Nyce '46; the new alumni representative to the Board, Charles C. Brown, Jr. '59; and the six new at-large members of Alumni Council: James C. Gibbel '60; James R. Heck '59; Galen E. Keeney '52; Barbara Walls McQuaide '59; W. Joel Simpson '65; and Paul R. Yoder, Jr. '47.

Alumni also dined together at a special single Reunion Dinner, held in the Baker Refectory, honoring the quinquennial classes and all emeriti classes. The single exception was the 50-year class, a large group from which was hosted at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ellis.

The aesthetic highlight of the year, finally, was the Music Department's production of Verdi's "Requiem," which drew rave reviews from audience and critics alike. Under the direction of Bruce A. Hirsch, associate professor of music, the Friday and Saturday performances featured a 140-voice choir composed of students, alumni, faculty, staff, emeriti faculty and friends, plus a 65-piece college/community orchestra. Marjorie E. Hirsch, instructional assistant in music, sang the mezzo soprano solo, while Patricia and Thomas Conrad '68 sang soprano and bass, respectively. Tenor Marvin Burke completed the complement of guest artists.

Juniata's last three presidents and retiring board chairman, Drs. Ellis, Stauffer, Baker and Binder, prior to the Centennial Convocation.

The four retiring members of the faculty and staff honored at this year's Trustee/Faculty Dinner: Dr. Harold B. Brumbaugh '33, vice president for college relations, 40 years of service; Hilda Nathan, chief accountant, 30 years; Dr. Eva R. Hartzler '32, professor of chemistry, 26 years; and Dr. D. Edwin Blaisdell, professor of mathematics, 22 years.

ON THE COVER: Clockwise from upper left, Dr. James B. Rhoads, archivist of the United States, delivering the Centennial Convocation address May 1; Drs. Binder and Baker and Mrs. Ellis at the Annual Alumni Luncheon, where the latter two shared the Alumni Association's annual Service Award; Dr. A. Blair Helman, president of Manchester College and moderator of the Church of the Brethren, delivering this year's Commencement address; and Dr. Baker and C. Jewett Henry '29 prior to the Convocation. Henry, a prominent Huntingdon attorney, succeeds Dr. Baker as chairman of the Board of Trustees. The announcement was made at the Convocation.

On behalf of the College, Dr. Binder receives a congratulatory citation from Rep. Samuel E. Hayes, Jr. of the 81st District. In the citation presented at the Convocation, the Pennsylvania House of Representatives lauded Juniata for "one hundred years of service and . . . significant accomplishments."

Robert C. Baker '21

Robert C. Baker J. Melvin Rhodes

Since the last Bulletin issue, the College has sadly noted the passing of three especially outstanding friends, P. M. "Mike" Snider '26 (see page 7), Robert Calhoun Baker '21, and Dr. J. Melvin Rhodes '38.

A member of the Board of Trustees and a major benefactor of the College, Mr. Baker died March 10 in Nassau, the Bahamas, where he was vacationing. His death, at 73, was unexpected.

An Everett native, Mr. Baker was a resident of Washington, D.C., where he had been associated with the American Security and Trust Company for 30 years. At the time of his death he was chairman of the Board of Directors, chief executive officer, and chairman of the executive committee.

Also a graduate of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, he received the honorary doctor of laws degree from Juniata in 1968 and had served on the Board since 1956.

Dr. Rhodes, Juniata's dean of students and director of admissions from 1948-52, died April 29 in Sebring, Fla., at the age of 59. A Johnstown native, he received his Ph.D. from the University of Arizona, where he also worked in the placement bureau after leaving Juniata.

He served his alma mater as a field representative following graduation, then served as a major in the U.S. Army during World War II. He was named Dean of Students in 1947 and instructor in psychology in 1951.

THE JUNIATA CENTENNIAL HISTORY

In Recognition of Juniata's Centennial

Available in December, 1976

Pre-Publication Price—$10.00
Post-Publication Price—$15.00

includes mailing and handling costs

This 100th anniversary history of the College has been made possible through the generous and helpful assistance of many alumni and friends of the College. Particular gratitude is expressed to the members of the Juniata Women's League and the Friends of the Library. Having helped the College in many ways in the past, both the League and the Friends have provided, as a Centennial gift, generous support toward defraying the cost of purchase of this historic volume.

"MOUNTAIN DAY" AN ETCHING BY STEVEN A. BARBASH

"Mountain Day" is the centennial etching celebrating the founding of Juniata College. Two hundred impressions are being offered for $100 per strike. At that price, in that small quantity, "Mountain Day" is certain to become a collector's piece in a very short time.

For Juniata alumni, Mountain Day carries a special significance. It represents the belief in tradition, in a tranquil past when scholarship, human fellowship and a love of nature formed a healthy triumvirate. Steven Barbash's etching captures this unity and Barbash interprets it as only one who was there could.

Etching—the process of making a picture on a metal plate—has long been a medium of challenge for great artists. Historically, Rembrandt is considered the master etcher, while James McNeill Whistler and Mary Cassatt have been the most famous among more recent Americans. Etching allows for an easy freedom of line which engraving and woodcut do not, and it permits expressions in tone and hue that are seldom even caught in lithography.

The true artist-etcher, such as Steven Barbash, does each step in the long, careful process himself. Both the art and techniques for producing "Mountain Day" were Barbash's responsibility. In a sense, each impression printed by Barbash is a unique work of art, for the plate is never inked in exactly the same way, nor does the ink spread across the paper in a regular fashion. Impressions which didn't please the artist were destroyed, while each acceptable print is slightly different from the one before. Technically, Barbash's etching is as good as any being made in America today.

In "Mountain Day," the acid has been permitted to bite long and deep. The ink is thick, as if applied with a palette knife, and white backlights shimmer and change as the lighting around them changes. Rich in emotion and memory, the etching spins a subtle spell, reaching beyond any particular moment or place to a general feeling for nature. "Mountain Day" is a forest memory which for many Juniataans should be an important artistic memento.

Steven A. Barbash was chairman of Juniata's art department from 1960 to 1970. His prints are in the permanent collections of the Library of Congress, the Bobwin Collection of American Art, the Rochester Museum and the Pushkin Museum, Moscow. His work was recently included in a show entitled "A Printmaking Tradition: Gabor Petardi and His Colleagues" at the Jane Haslen Gallery in Washington, D.C., which featured work by twenty of the most distinguished printmakers in America.

Peter Marzio, a 1965 Juniata graduate, is the youngest man ever to hold the position of Curator of Prints at the Smithsonian Institution. After earning a degree in History and Art History from the University of Chicago, he accepted a post at the Smithsonian, where he has organized shows on such off-beat subjects as the Sculpture of Rube Goldberg and American Neon-Light Advertising Signs. He is recognized as one of the leading authorities in the country on printmaking.

AROUND CAMPUS WITH FACULTY AND STAFF

■ By action of the Board of Trustees at its Spring Meeting, six faculty members have been advanced in rank. Listed with their new positions, they are DR. KLAUS KIPPHAN, professor of history; DR. PAUL D. SCHETTLER, JR., professor of chemistry; DR. DUANE F. STROMAN, professor of sociology; DR. JAMES J. LAKSO, associate professor of economics; DR. DONALD J. MITCHELL, associate professor of chemistry; and DEAN M. ROSSI, assistant professor of physical education.

■ WILLIAM B. "WHITEY" MARTIN '59, former director of alumni relations and placement at Juniata, has returned to campus as director of career planning and placement. Working with students of all classes, he will offer vocational guidance, counsel in selection of courses, and develop contacts with employment recruiters. Prior to assuming his new post, Martin was national director of recruiting for Coopers and Lybrand, certified public accountants.

■ As part of its expanded Continuing Education program, Juniata will offer a number of special learning opportunities this summer. Among them are a pair of August theatre tours directed by CLAYTON E. BRIGGS, associate professor of speech and theatre. The first will explore "Cape Cod: American Strawhat Theatre in Action," while the second will study "Shakespeare in Performance at Home and Abroad."

A June program, "Archeology for the Amateur," will be taught by PAUL M. HEBERLING, associate professor of sociology, while an August "Summer Ecology Institute" will be staffed by DR. ROBERT L. FISHER, associate professor of biology; DR. ROBERT H. WASHBURN, associate professor of geology; Heberling; and TODD GUSTAFSON, newly-appointed assistant professor of biology.

■ Aiming to develop a broader educational program for children ages three-five, the Education Department at Juniata has announced plans to expand its nursery school into an "Early Childhood Educational Center." Focusing on "learning centers," the program has been moved from the Women's Gym to Maude Leshner Hall, principally the former Leshner Dining Hall. DR. HOWARD H. CROUCH, professor of education, is program director, while SALLY S. ONDREJCAK, assistant professor of education, is curriculum coordinator.

AROUND CAMPUS WITH STUDENTS

■ Two graduating seniors, ALAN K. KULP of Malvern and GEORGE KOURAKIN of Millville, N.J., have won first prize in a nationally advertised film-making contest sponsored by the New Jersey Chapter of the American Society of Preventive Dentistry. Entitled "Smile," their 30-minute color film was narrated by DR. KENNETH H. ROCKWELL '57, professor of biology.

The College celebrated Arbor Day in a unique way this spring, launching the planting of 100 trees in observance of its first 100 years. Pictured here, from left to right, are Dr. Wilfred G. Norris '54, dean of academic affairs; Dr. Donald T. Hartman, dean of student services; and Robert Lister '79.

Students, faculty and administrators aided in early plantings, with the Circle K Club coordinating student assistance. The $8000 tree project, part of a master landscaping plan, has been supported by various alumni classes, local organizations and friends.

■ Two Juniata students, PHYLLIS Y. BRADLEY '78 of Everett, and LAUREL B. BAITTINGER '78 of Pedricktown, N.J., have been accepted for the 1976-77 Brethren Colleges Abroad program. Bradley will study at the University of Barcelona, Spain; Baittinger at Philipps-Universitat in Marburg, West Germany.

■ Some 600 students gave up their dinners May 17 for Juniata's annual "Meal for CROP." Coordinated by REV. M. ANDREW MURRAY, campus minister, the program invites area residents to purchase the meals, with that money going to CROP. The latter body is an independent, non-profit relief organization specializing in emergency food relief and the teaching of long-range agricultural and nutritional skills. More than $1300 was raised.

■ MARGARET "MEG" MEYER of Riverdale, N.J. and SAM A. SIRIANNI of Long Branch, N.J. were honored as the "Juniata Woman of the Year" and "Juniata Man of the Year" at this year's May Day Breakfast. Both awards go to seniors.

■ Fourteen students were recognized this month for outstanding academic achievement, leadership and citizenship at the annual Senior Convocation. Four juniors received Charles C. Ellis Memorial Scholarships: RODNEY A. BEDNAR of Norristown, DEBORAH M. GARNER of Hesston, JAMES R. GAUL of Willow Grove, and LAURA A. WAUSAT of Pine Grove Mills; while a freshman, KATHLEEN E. SMITH, of Lewistown, won the Victor Kamkin Book Award for excellence in Russian area studies.

Seniors honored were CYNTHIA J. GILBERT of Milmont Park, the Dow-Jones Co. Wall Street Journal Award and the William S. Price Social Studies Prize; CRAIG S. BRANDT of Lancaster, RENEE D. DIEHL of Shippensburg, LARRY J. HOOVER of Portage, and A. DAVID MINGLE of Roaring Spring, the Andrew B. and Maria F. Brumbaugh Science Prizes; MARGARET N. MEYER of Riverdale, N.J., the Justina Marsteller Langdon Prize; LEE A. FLINNER of Levittown, the Wilbur W. Oaks Prize; KAREN E. WEAVER of Windber, the Charles M. Rice Accounting Prize; JOHN F. GRAYBILL of Beavertown, the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants Plaque; and ROBERT A. MEACHAM of Horsham, the Raymond R. Day Prize.

AND VISITORS, TOO

■ JUNIUS J. BLEIMAN, a retired career army officer and currently mayor of Princeton, N.J., spent a March week on campus as a Woodrow Wilson Visiting Fellow discussing the U.S. military establishment, foreign and domestic policy, and his own career in public administration.

Other speakers this spring have included KAREN DETAMORE, a Speakers Bureau representative from the National Lawyers Guild, who delivered the annual G. Graybill Diehm Lecture; DR. VERNON ASPATURIAN, nationally known expert on Soviet foreign policy; and STEPHEN R. HERR '67, who conducted a seminar, "Opportunities in Geology." Herr is employed by Texaco, Inc., in Tulsa, Okla.

■ Six alumni, all well-known physicians, served as speakers for a "Symposium for the Primary Care Physician" in the Brumbaugh Science Center April 30. Hosted by the College in conjunction with the Jefferson Medical College of Thomas Jefferson University, the symposium featured:

DR. EDWARD M. PODGORSKI '50, clinical assistant professor, DR. JOSEPH P. LONG '34, clinical professor, and DR. JOHN B. MONTGOMERY '21, emeritus professor, all of Jefferson's department of obstetrics and gynecology; DR. ALVIN P. WENGER '39, assistant professor of otolaryngology at Johns Hopkins Hospital and Medical School; DR. DONALD A. DUPLER '36, assistant professor of clinical medicine at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School; and DR. LOUIS PIERUCCI '49, associate professor of surgery at Jefferson.

■ ROLAND W. ROBBINS, a professional consultant on American Heritage Landmarks, spent two spring weeks on campus as an artist-in-residence in conjunction with Juniata's bicentennial course, "Founding A Nation." Among Robbins' most noted projects have been excavation of Thoreau's house at Walden Pond and restoration of Pilgrim John Alden's home in Duxbury, Mass.

■ Biology students from seven colleges in Pennsylvania and Maryland gathered on campus Apr. 10 for the Northeast Region, District II convention of Beta Beta Beta, the national biological honor society, hosted by Juniata's Lambda Epsilon chapter.

In addition, high school drama students from throughout the area attended a day-long "High School One-Act Play Festival" on campus Apr. 10. Special guest for the latter program was GRETCHEN WYLER, well-known Broadway musical performer.

New Dana Grant to Help Develop "Humanities Cluster"

In a major advance for the College's Humanities Division, Juniata has received a $100,000 challenge grant from the Charles A. Dana Foundation of Greenwich, Conn., it was announced this month by President Binder.

The $100,000 grant, whose stipulations call for Juniata to match the funds within the next year, will be used to develop the Charles A. Dana Humanities Cluster, a major renovation and refurbishing project.

According to Dr. Binder, six buildings located at the southwestern corner of the campus, all lying along 17th Street between Mifflin and Moore Streets, have been chosen to house the Humanities Division: the former Carnegie Library (now the Shoemaker Galleries), Oller House (formerly a student residence), the I. Harvey Brumbaugh House (present location of the Office of Public Relations), the Faculty Club, the College Manse, and Nye House (now used as College apartments).

The "Cluster," which will house the departments of art, history, foreign languages, philosophy and English, will necessitate renovation of the five large McKinley-era houses and refurbishing of the Carnegie Library.

The academic learning area will provide faculty offices, seminar rooms and small classrooms arranged in living room style, while surrounding lawn and campus areas will accommodate outdoor classes, art displays, and benches for relaxing and reading.

In order to achieve a mall effect, the College is seeking permission from the Huntingdon Borough Council to close the affected segment of 17th Street.

"We believe," says Dr. Binder, "that renovation is a much more practical way to meet our urgent need for humanities facilities development, and that it will meet our needs, both physical and aesthetic, more readily than will new construction."

Seeming to agree, James I. Armstrong, president of the Dana Foundation, has congratulated Juniata "for the imaginative plan for renewal of existing facilities to meet the needs of the educational program in the humanities" at the College.

The latest grant is the second major gift Juniata has received from the Dana Foundation. In 1970, the College established four Charles A. Dana Supported Professorships with a grant of $250,000 and a like amount in matching funds from alumni, trustees and friends.

ENCOURAGING DEVELOPMENTS

—Frank A. Peirce of Ambler, $25,000 for the intermediate development phase of the Raystown Field Station. The major portion of the Peirce gift, applied to the Centennial Fund, will provide for construction and equipping of the research station laboratory and for renovation of an existing building for use as field station headquarters.

—Pew Memorial Trust, administered by Glenmede Trust Company of Philadelphia, $20,730, to support the new educational program and current operations of the college's department of economics and business administration. The grant will specifically support field work and internships, guest speakers, an extensive case library and faculty development.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shuck and Family of Huntingdon, $10,000 to establish the Ruth Morgan Scholarship Fund for needy and worthy students. The memorial fund will honor the late Mrs. Ruth F. Morgan of Huntingdon.

—National Science Foundation (NSF), $9,050 for Juniata's undergraduate summer research program. The grant will support the work of five undergraduates chosen on the basis of their aptitude in physical science, imagination and perseverance. The main thrust of the program at Juniata is energy research.

—Roaring Spring Blank Book Company, $5,000 to establish the Roaring Spring Blank Book Scholarship, which will be available primarily to students whose parent or parents are employed by the Roaring Spring Blank Book Company.

—Bethlehem Steel Corporation, $5,000 as part of a program under which private colleges and universities are awarded that sum on behalf of each graduate who joins Bethlehem's Loop Course and who remains with the corporation for at least four months. Juniata's gift came through Carol A. McFate '75, and will be used for the department of economics and business administration and placement and career counseling program.

Notes on ESTATE PLANNING at Juniata

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of comments concerning the importance of estate planning for Juniata's future. The series is the work of President Emeritus John N. Stauffer '36. In this, Juniata's Centennial Year, it is more apparent than ever that estate planning must play an increasingly significant part in the College's financial advancement, and we are most pleased to be able to share Dr. Stauffer's insights and guidance.

Let's consider the old analogy of the three-legged stool! Three legs are the minimum number needed to make a stool stable and sturdy. The same may be said about three kinds of support needed for Juniata's stability, quality and continued independence.

The first is the Annual Support Fund, which was established in 1969 and each year helps to balance the educational budget and, specifically, to maintain needed advances in faculty compensation and financial assistance for needy and worthy students. Most gifts to this essential effort are given from their annual earnings by alumni and friends.

Let me emphasize our unfailing gratitude for the fact that, in 1974-75, $130,400 was given to this fund by alumni and friends. Even better results are anticipated when the 1975-76 Annual Support Fund is completed on June 30.

The second leg is that of the capital funds campaign. Juniata's friends have responded magnificently to periodic fund-raising efforts which have built buildings and added to the endowment while assuring the general advancement of the educational program. As is well known, the Margin of Difference effort, begun in 1968, is now nearing a successful conclusion, thanks to virtually everyone who reads these pages. Such gifts are most frequently taken from one's own capital resources and become a part of the capital funds of the College, i.e., building and endowment funds.

Again, there is reason for thanksgiving and rejoicing because of the generous ways in which Juniata's constituents have helped their college prepare for the second century. The Margin of Difference, now culminating in the Juniata Centennial Fund, is expected to reach its goal of $10.1 million by the end of 1976.

It is the third leg of the stool which needs to be developed further in order to assure its effectiveness in Juniata's future. It is not now non-existent, but we must make it an explicit, vigorous and continuously productive element in order that its full benefits may be realized.

Let this third leg be called "Estate Planning." Some may think of annuities, others may think of wills and bequests, yet others may mention trusts or life insurance. "Estate Planning" is all of these. It is a more inclusive name and implies the needed continuity of thoughtful and well-planned effort which must be shared by the benefactor (plus his or her financial and legal advisors) on the one hand and by the officers of the College on the other.

There are increasing numbers of alumni and friends who are determined to add a sturdy third leg to the stool, including Juniata in their estate planning. The benefits are threefold:

First, if an annuity, life income contract or unitrust is chosen, the donor enjoys lifetime income and financial security along with the deeply satisfying knowledge that Juniata's continued effectiveness is enhanced by his or her generous action. This is further assured by certain helpful provisions in the Internal Revenue Code.

Second, Juniata is strengthened by future additions to the endowment fund or by other appropriate uses which the donor may determine.

Third, through the donor's foresight and generosity, future generations of Juniata students will be supported in their efforts to prepare themselves for useful and effective living.

In future columns attention will be given to the methods available for giving a gift for Juniata's future while retaining income during your lifetime (and/or the lifetime of a loved one). You may write now for information about any of the following methods:

1. Charitable gift annuities (or deferred payment gift annuities)
2. Life income contracts (invested in the College's pooled income fund)
3. Charitable remainder unitrusts
4. Gifts by bequest (outright or deferred)
5. Gifts of life insurance

By wise estate planning, the most suitable combination of methods will produce the best financial results for you and simultaneously achieve the objectives you have in mind for Juniata. To do this, your gift can include cash, appreciated securities, appreciated real estate or some other asset acceptable under IRS regulation.

Remember that each individual needs a separately designed estate plan which will fulfill unique purposes while taking personal resources and circumstances into account. Remember, too, that these are well-established methods which go back over many years, and the plans which are proposed are in full accord with state and federal regulations. Legitimate tax benefits are available to you because Juniata qualifies under the Internal Revenue Code as a tax-exempt educational institution.

Above all, keep in mind that estate planning can help you achieve your aspirations for Juniata. In the next Bulletin, we shall think together about the reasons for including Juniata in one's estate plan, while at the same time reviewing anonymously some examples of people who have found great personal satisfaction as they have strengthened the third primary source of Juniata's future quality and stability.

Hartley Wins Mickle; Twelve Named MVPs

Led by graduating senior Barry Hartley, the evening's only double winner and recipient of the 30th Stanford Mickle Award, 13 Indian athletes were honored at the annual All-Sports Awards Program May 17.

An Altoona native—the second in a row to capture the coveted Mickle—Hartley was also recognized with the Charles F. Goodale Alumni Award as the Indians' outstanding baseball player this season. Hartley, who lettered eight times in baseball and football as a catcher and linebacker, respectively, succeeded Richard Nedimyer in taking the Mickle honor.

The Mickle Award, having come to symbolize both achievement and leadership in Juniata sports, is given to "that man of the graduating class who, like Stanford Mickle, loved athletics, participated in and manifested a wholesome interest in sports, and contributed to the promotion of athletics at Juniata College."

WILLIAM THOMPSON, a graduate of Lancaster's J. P. McCaskey High School, won the other non-MVP award at the program. A four-year letterman in track, he took home the John E. Blood Memorial Award for the senior who, having earned three varsity letters, has maintained the highest academic average. Thompson, a pre-law major, earned a 2.64 average out of a possible 3.0.

Eleven other athletes—eight men and three women—were honored with Alumni Awards. Including Hartley, six MVPs were seniors, three juniors, one a sophomore, and two freshmen. Listed by season with donor and sport, they were:

P. M. "Mike" Snider

P. M. "Mike" Snider '26, former director of athletics and coach in five Juniata sports, died Mar. 7 in Sun City, Ariz., where he had lived in retirement since 1969. Snider, 72, died of heart failure.

A Franklin native, Snider lettered in football, basketball, tennis and track at Juniata. He would later coach all four sports on College Hill, also bringing cross country to campus. He also earned degrees from the College of American Gymnastics and the Pennsylvania State University.

A former engineer with the Commonwealth, he returned to Juniata in 1930 as head track coach and assistant in football and basketball. He was named AD in 1940 and would "engineer" both the physical education program and facilities at his alma mater. Memorial Gymnasium, which Snider designed, was the forerunner of all Pennsylvania college gyms.

Snider was head coach in football two years, basketball five, tennis seven, track 35, and cross country 12. His 1963 track team was 10-1, a Juniata record, and his overall cross country record was 61-31-1. In the latter sport, he fashioned five unbeaten teams, 1957-62, winning 38 straight meets.

Pair Stands Out in Spring Sports Action

A freshman and a senior—one jumping hurdles, the other nets—captured the spring sports limelight this year on College Hill.

Freshman hurdler Bob McNelly became the first individual at Juniata to earn a berth in any sport in the NCAA Division III National Championships. Having helped Dean Rossi's track team to an unexpected 8-1 season, McNelly qualified for the nationals in the 440 intermediates, having logged a school-record 54.3 in the Middle Atlantic Conference Championships.

McNelly, whose time tied the Indian mark set by Joe Coradetti in 1972, took a second at the rainswept MACs in a hotly-contested photo finish. At the nationals, where the distance became 400 meters and McNelly barely missed a spot in the finals, he came back to beat the MAC champ, Washington's Art Hoyt, by a full second. McNelly's time was 54.0, roughly the same as his earlier effort.

During the regular season, McNelly was one of four Tribe freshmen who paced the squad in scoring. Undefeated in his specialty, he finished second in point production to sprinter and long jumper Dave Robison and just ahead of quarter-miler Casey Koller and low hurdler Lou Gibbons.

Senior Jack McCullough eclipsed his own Tribe three-mile mark with a 14:40.3, knocking 52 seconds from his previous best, set in 1973. McCullough was also undefeated as the Indians turned in their second-best-ever win total and winning percentage. Only the 1963 squad, which finished at 10-1, has earned better figures for the Tribe.

The senior net-jumper, number one singles man Gavin Ford, paced Ernie Post's tennis team to the only other winning record at Juniata this spring. At 5-0, the Indians captured the MAC Northern Division West Section title and finished 9-5 overall.

Ford, playing number one for the fourth straight year and copping his third straight Alumni Award, also turned in the Tribe's best regular-season record for the third straight time. At 11-3 in dual competition, he finished his career at 32-10 for regular-season play, 41-17 overall.

In addition, Ford reached the quarterfinals of the Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Championships May 28-31 before bowing to runnerup Nick Gregory of Temple.

Two other Indians finished the season with winning singles records: freshman Scott Burghart, 6-2 at number six; and senior Mont Rice, 9-4 at number three. In doubles play, Burghart teamed with sophomore Dave Shober to go 8½-2½ at number three.

For Bill Germann's golf team (4-8), sophomore Doug Garner and junior Jim Ludwick led the scoring attack. Ludwick averaged 81.2 strokes for six rounds, missing the MAC Tournament played under highly adverse conditions. Garner, despite inflated MAC marks, averaged 81.9 for seven outings.

In women's tennis (2-6), junior Alice Herritt at number one was the leading performer for sister and coach Elizabeth. The Williamsport native was 5-5 overall.

On the diamond, finally, where Bill Berrier's charges (3-12) lost eight decisions by two runs or less, junior centerfielder Steve Harper walked away with batting honors at .375. He also led the squad in hits (18), rbi (16), home runs (3) and slugging percentage (.688), and pitched and won one game. Junior shortstop Dave Wichrowski hit .314.

Juniata Publishes Peace Studies Journal

A new journal, "Juniata Studies: Peace, Justice and Conflict," was published this month by Juniata as part of its continuing Centennial celebration.

Edited by Ralph B. Church, associate professor of English, and Dr. Klaus Kipphan, professor of history, the journal is an outgrowth of the Peace and Conflict Studies program established at the College in 1973 with support from Dr. John C. Baker '17, then chairman of the board of trustees, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Baker, and then-president Dr. John N. Stauffer '36.

The eight journal articles and one poem "illustrate the wide didactic, aesthetic and scholarly interests of our participating faculty members," says Dr. Kipphan, who also directs the Peace and Conflict program and chairs the history department. All contributions, he adds, are from Juniata faculty members involved in the program.

In introducing the journal, Dr. Kipphan also says "We believe that these contributions represent a microcosm of our struggle for meaning and purpose. We have no panaceas to offer, yet we hope that through the civilizing influence of an educational process oriented around the ideals of peace, justice and social responsibility we can contribute toward the building of a better life for all men."

Dr. and Mrs. Baker, in an introductory statement, add "This college, founded on religion by the Church of the Brethren and still retaining its influence, is a natural place to study peaceful solutions to conflicts. May the influence of the Peace and Conflict Studies program at Juniata spread far."

The eight journal articles, all written expressly for the publication, are:

"A Dunker Revolution: The Founding of Juniata College," by Dr. Earl C. Kaylor, Jr. '46, Charles A. Dana Supported Professor of Religion and History.

"Julius Strecher: Propagandist of the Holocaust," by Dr. Kipphan.

"'Thou Shalt Not Kill?' Personal Reflections on Capital Punishment," by Dr. Jose C. Nieto, associate professor of religion and department chairman.

"Hemingway, Kazantzakis, and Rain," by Church, who also chairs the English department and contributed the poem "Advice to a Son Going to War."

"Thoreau and Tolstoy: Two 'Worthless Tramps,'" by George T. Dolnikowski '52, associate professor of Russian and German.

"A Commitment to Teach Peace," a three-part article by Rev. M. Andrew Murray, campus minister and instructor in religion, and Dr. Martin Clark, assistant professor of sociology and religion.

"Peace Studies in the Social Sciences—or—You Can't Teach Peace," by William C. Vocke, assistant professor of political science.

Alexander T. McBride, assistant professor of art and director of Juniata's Shoemaker Galleries, drew the cover design and contributed the art work for the journal.

The publication, notes Dr. Kipphan, continues a series of special contributions which the Peace and Conflict program has made to the college community each year. Others have been a Colloquium on Military Spending and last year's Dick Gregory lecture.

The program has involved more than 200 students in its coursework through this year, he adds, offering courses such as International Politics, Friends and Brothers: Studies in Historic Peace Churches, War and Conscience in America, and Arms and the Man: Studies in War Literature.

In addition to the Bakers and Dr. Stauffer, Dr. Kipphan cited Dr. Wilfred G. Norris '54, dean of academic affairs, for vigorous support of the program.

"Juniata Studies: Peace, Justice and Conflict" is on sale in the Juniata Bookstore.
